Forever float that standard sheet!
Where breathes the foe but falls before us?
With Freedom's soil beneath our feet,
And Freedom's banner streaming o'er us!

Let us Fill Up the Ranks.

One of the plainest, most urgent and emphatic lessons taught us by our frequent and grievous reverses in this war, is the want of more men. Every considerable battle that has yet taken place has been with the number of the enemy greatly superior to ours, and this last defeat, at Lexington, urges this matter upon us with redoubled force. What could the little handful of men with the brave Col. Mulligan be expected to do with so overwhelming a force as was known to be concentrating against them? They hardly had men enough, as the event proved, to keep down the Home Guards, who had called upon them for assistance, but who, in the hour of danger, gave way to ignoble fear, exhibiting a most unmanly cowardice. The lamented Gen. Lyon found himself in a like extremity. In the face of an enemy largely outnumbering his brave little army, he was compelled to give battle when he was painfully aware that it was at a fearful risk. To inspire confidence in his men he heroically laid down his own life. The enemy were routed, but he had not men enough to follow up the victory and it became substantially a defeat. The people are constantly demanding a forward movement; loyal men in the border states are beseeching the government for protection, yet we have not a sufficient force to justify such a movement, or to render the much needed protection. We have more than twice the population of the rebel states, we have abundant resources, we have right and justice upon our side, yet the enemy still succeeds in overmarching us with numbers, while we stand wondering why it is that we so often meet with defeat. In none of our military departments have we yet a sufficient force to move forward with safety—barely enough to hold our several positions. Volunteering goes on slowly in the eastern states, and but moderately in the western states. The enemy yet keeps pace with our accessions, and will do so till we get more in earnest and appreciate the work we have before us.

Matters in Missouri.

The news from Missouri to-day indicates an active campaign for the next week or ten days. Since Gen. Fremont has been at St. Louis, he has caused to be constructed a connection between the Iron Mountain railroad and the Pacific railroad, in the city of St. Louis. It has been completed just in time for the present emergency. All the rolling stock of the Iron Mountain railroad is now being used to transport troops to Jefferson City or Sedalia, as they may be needed to operate against Price. On Saturday last nine steamboats were chartered, and commenced taking aboard troops and munitions of war at St. Louis, bound up the Missouri river, to Jefferson City or Lexington. The St. Louis papers do not, by any means, despair at the capture of Col. Mulligan; on the contrary they think Price has only exchanged situations with him. The Democrat of yesterday says:

The extraordinary activity for the past three or four days on the river and the railroads, the presence of Gen. Lane on the west side of Lexington with an accumulated force of more than 4,000 men, the presence of Gen. Sturgis on the north with about the same number, the bold loads of troops steaming up the Missouri river, and the heavy columns moving rapidly to the west from Jefferson City, all look to the westward movement for the complete trapping of the rebel army under Gen. Price, to the accomplishment of which, we are disposed to believe, the capture of Col. Mulligan was but one of the premeditated necessities. These considerations we know will have but little force with those whose petulant habit it is to insist that everything must at all times go right, or else that everything is wrong; but we ask reasonable Union friends simply to exercise faith and patience.

The St. Louis Republican of the 24th says: It is unnecessary here to state what these were—to recapitulate what causes operated to prevent the reinforcement of Col. Mulligan. But assuming that the garrison has surrendered, according to the tenor of the reports, we are not by any means disposed to regard the calamity as irreparable. Aside from the capture of a large body of brave men as prisoners of war—if such is really the case—it may be questioned whether it is not as well to let the confederates have the advantage of so fearful a triumph. We think Gen. Price has got his command into a pen, and we cannot see how he is to escape. It is our belief that if he remains in Lexington he will certainly be caught and be compelled to capitulate at discretion; and if we are not much mistaken, his retreat is completely cut off. Within three days or thereabouts, he will be surrounded on four sides. We will not say how many troops are in the field to operate upon him, directly and indirectly, as it is sufficient to state that there are enough. The secession army is doomed.

Gen. Price, now that he is quartered in Lexington, may look around him, and viewing with consternation the advancing Union columns, must find that no assistance is at hand.

Union State Convention.

The convention met at Madison, on Tuesday the 24th inst. John P. McGregor of Milwaukee, called the convention to order. W. E. Smith, of Dodge county, was elected chairman pro tem, and Geo. H. Reed of Oshkosh, temporary secretary.

Delegates were present from Brown, Dane, Dodge, Green, Green Lake, Iowa, Jefferson, Juneau, La Fayette, Marathon, Milwaukee, Oconto, Outagamie, Portage, Rock, St. Croix, Sheboygan, Walworth, Waukesha, Waupaca, and Winnebago counties.

Mr. Trusdell, from committee on permanent organization, presented—

Hon. Henry S. Baird, as president; G. S. Graves, C. B. Beebe, N. Webster, and Lute A. Taylor, as vice presidents; J. S. Dean and C. Hall, secretaries. The report was unanimously adopted.

After some further business had been transacted, connected with the organization of the convention, an informal ballot for governor was taken as follows:

The whole number of votes cast was 161; of which L. P. Harvey received 60; C. C. Washburne, J. M. H. Carpenter 5, J. D. Doty 2, J. Williams 4, H. S. Baird 3, J. W. Cary 12, B. Ferguson 1, C. D. Robinson 4, H. S. Palmer 9, J. H. Tweedy 2, J. T. Lewis 1, S. Marshall 1, blank 4.

Mr. John W. Cary moved to dispense with a formal ballot, and that LOUIS P. HARVEY be declared the unanimous nominee of this convention for governor, which was adopted.

A committee was appointed to inform Mr. Harvey of his nomination.

For the Daily Gazette.
How Was it Done?

Your correspondent N. in yesterday's issue assumed to tell your readers, of whom I am one, "How it was done," and when I looked at the portentous heading and then at the signature, I really expected to learn "how it was done," because I thought N. ought to know if any body did, and particularly so since I infer that he was the leader in this Union (?) movement. But in reading the article I found myself greatly disappointed, for instead of telling us "how it was done" it is evident N. is utterly ignorant of "how it was done," and that is because of that ignorance and because he was completely out figured, that he has resolved to bid adieu to politics and politicians. I wish I knew "how it was done," that is, all of it, I would tell you. But as I do not know any thing, only what I saw, I know I shall be excused if I do not tell all, if I do not tell more than I saw.

A brief recurrence to the scenes in the republican deputed convention will be necessary, in order to a clear understanding of what took place Monday night. It will be remembered that three wards in the city held their conventions and appointed their delegates to the city convention before Saturday last. The 2d ward convention was held Saturday afternoon. All who saw the trick knew how and by whom that convention was packed and for what purpose. It was very evident that the delegates appointed to represent this city in the state convention were not satisfactory to a majority of the republicans here. I say it was evident, for while my choice for governor, if I had any, was Mr. Harvey, I am forced to believe that could all the republican electors in this city express their choice, there would be two to one for Mr. Washburne. I think I may safely say that this dissatisfaction with the action of the republican convention, induced N. and "MANY CITIZENS" to unite in the call for the union convention. They who had packed the deputed convention, of course, could not permit it to be demonstrated that the sentiment of the republicans, and all the people, was not with them, and any man who saw how busy they were on Monday in button-holing men about town, would not have gone to the convention expecting any other result than that attained.

I, for one, went there to see what I should see, and as I went early I think I can give you a pretty clear statement of "how it was done" there.

When I got there I found the Sheriff, Joe Sleeper, Joe Baker, old Mr. Howland and a few others. Soon Bill Lawrence came in, I supposed to see and hear, perchance, for being a party delegate, and having been in the party convention on Saturday, I knew of course he would take no part in the proceedings. If he had any part or lot in them, his work had all been done before the hour of meeting. Well, the crowd (?) began to assemble, and among others there were many of the leaders of both the parties.—At the proper hour Dr. Treat, assuming "to be the leader in the union movement," and "in accordance with the call," called the meeting to order. Being in a part of the house which was a little behind the scenes, I had seen the movement concocted for organizing the meeting in part. I had seen two men in an exciting confab. I saw them separate, one go to a distant part of the hall, the other remaining in place. And although I thought their plan was about to be frustrated by the Doctor, yet when, after calling the meeting to order, instead of nominating a president of his choice, I heard him ask some one to nominate a "thou fool." I involuntarily said to myself "thou fool." No sooner had the request been made than one of the gentlemen before named nominated and the other seconded a president. When old Mr. Howland was named for vice-president, I really thought he would decline; and I think he had a mind so to do when he arose and turned to the audience; but, seeing so many of the delegates to the republican convention there, I suppose the old gentleman felt that he was in the old convention over which he had presided, as I understood, so he yielded to the unanimous voice of the convention and took his seat. Knowing as I thought I did what the Doctor wished the action of the convention to be, and what were Mr. Howland's preferences, I could but laugh to myself, as I looked about on that crowd of 60 or 70 persons, representing (?) the people of Janesville—the Unionists, and saw how certainly both of their hopes were to be blasted. The motion for the appointment of a committee on resolutions was made by the Doctor, while at the same time he begged to be excused from serving on it. The president, true to parliamentary usage, headed not the Doctor's request; but appointed him, Judge Armstrong and Joe Sleeper; the Doctor went straight to the committee room, but Joe and the Judge seemed a little indisposed to go, and began to inquire whether somebody there had not some resolutions ready prepared. They both seemed disinclined to take the responsibility of fathering any resolutions, or of acting at all in the convention. And after Joe came out of the committee room I noticed particularly, that he took no further part in the proceedings. I was by no means surprised at the result of the first informal ballot. I thought it very formal, just the form prescribed. How could it be otherwise when of the votes cast, there was a certain majority for Ebbetts? When the whole thing had been cut and dried? Do you suppose that republican convention was to be repudiated there? By no means; and had you been there, and seen as I saw, some of the delegates to that convention actively engaged in fixing things and peddling votes for the successful candidates, you could have seen "how it was done" and how it had been done before the convention met. I am surprised that N. with all his shrewdness did not see, and when he attempted to tell, make a more satisfactory expose.

Well the Doctor, who I understand was one of the movers of the "union movement," was completely cleaned out; and I doubt not he feels as discomfited over it as does N., though I doubt if the Doctor will have the good sense to stick to the business of curing the ills of the body and following N.'s example, eschew for the future the game of politics and the tricks of politicians.

I have one word for N.; I have my suspicions who he is, though I think he is in disguise. I have never seen him under his present colors, and I may be mistaken, but if I am not, and judging of him by what he says he has been in times past, I would advise him, if he really expects to succeed in politics, to stick and hang; now is the time for him. If he waits till the time "when honesty and integrity in politics will be the sine qua non to popular favor and success," he will stand not the slightest chance. But really, Mr. Editor, was not that convention a beautiful sample of the way a full expression of the will and choice of the people is given in Janesville?

Yours,
QUOKUM.

Janesville, Sept. 25th, 1861.

LEXINGTON, Mo.—Lexington, in Missouri, is the capital of Lafayette county, and about two hundred and fifty miles west-north-west of St. Louis, Jefferson City being about midway between the two points. The city has a population of between four and five thousand, and is located a mile and a quarter south of the Missouri river. Some fifty miles west is the Kansas line. The Pacific railroad extends from St. Louis to within fifty or sixty miles of Lexington.

Thirty-five of the northern counties of Illinois have been formed into a military district, by the governor of the state, and a camp is ordered to be formed at Chicago; Colonel J. H. Tucker is appointed commandant. The Journal says that northern Illinois has already sent thirty thousand men in the field and over twenty thousand more can be enlisted in the new district.

The First Wisconsin.—The first regiment is filling up rather slowly. Six companies are now in the camp at Milwaukee. Rice & Andrews, of the Newhall House, have the contract for victualing the regiment.

Speaking of Gen. Scott, a Washington correspondent says: "The old general is very feeble, and spends much of his time in sleep. He will never be in the saddle again. His mind, however, is as vigorous as ever, and he watches the progress of events with as eager an interest as the youngest officer."

THE UNION TICKET.—The following is ticket nominated at the Union convention yesterday: For governor, Louis P. Harvey; lieutenant governor, W. C. Allen; secretary of state, James T. Lewis; treasurer, Sam'l D. Hastings; attorney general, James H. Howe; bank commissioner, John Bracken; state prison commissioner, Hans C. Hag; superintendent of public instruction, John G. McKinley.

Joseph Wick's, a native of the eastern shore of Maryland, undertook to get out the arrested members of the Maryland legislature. Gen. Dix arrested him, sent him home, and warned the captain of the steamboat not to bring him back to Baltimore. That means keep his corpse away, instead of habeas corpus. This is not exactly according to the act of congress on this subject.

THE FOREIGN DEMAND FOR BREADSTUFFS.—The probable extent of the demand for breadstuffs from Europe for the coming year, may be seen from a few facts. It is ascertained that the crops upon which about one hundred and fifty millions of people rely for breadstuffs and other vegetable food, are deficient. The grain-growing population of this country, or in the loyal states, does not exceed ten millions. It is to the crops of these ten millions that Europe now looks to make good the deficiencies to her one hundred and fifty millions. The deficiencies need but very small to require all that the ten millions can spare.

THE NATIONAL LOAN IN CHICAGO.—The subscriptions to the national loan in Chicago, up to Monday noon, amounts to $139,082.51. One individual, Solomon Sturge, subscribed $100,000.

Last Night's Report.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. Special to the Post.—The cabinet is in session this evening, and it is understood that the disaster to the federal forces at Lexington is the subject of discussion. The opponents of Gen. Fremont charge that he could have prevented the necessity of Mulligan's surrender by sending timely reinforcements to Lexington. Recent advices received in St. Louis by Fremont's friends, however, state that he had not troops to send, and that it was entirely impossible for him to strengthen Mulligan's position.

The liveliest discussion of affairs in Missouri prevails here to-day in all quarters. Intercepted letters written by secession members of the Maryland legislature, show that the traitor members of that body had formed an elaborate scheme for passing a secession ordinance, and an attempt to organize an armed rebellion in the state against the power of the federal government, the summary means of which alone saved the state from all the horrors of civil war.

It is ascertained that Gen. Patterson's campaign in Virginia cost the government fully $10,000,000, the whole result of which was the capturing of some thirty fugitive slaves, nearly all of whom were returned to their masters.

ALBANY, Sept. 24. Representatives of the state central committee met here to-day, at which the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That in the opinion of this committee, at least 500,000 men should be enrolled for the war at the earliest possible date, and this state should furnish at least 100,000 of that number.

Resolved, That the executive committee be instructed to adopt the most vigorous measures, by public meetings, through the press, and otherwise, to show the people the importance of supporting the government with men and money in the present emergency.

Resolved, That we earnestly recommend to the general government the propriety of giving each volunteer hereafter enlisting either $20 of the bounty promised to the soldier at the termination of the war, or one month's pay in advance, at the time of enlisting.

ROLLA, Sept. 23. Correspondence St. Louis Democrat.—Last night, Mr. Holland of Springfield arrived having left there on Friday last. He is the man who took General Fremont's modification of his Proclamation through to Colonel Taylor. He reports Lieut. Williams of the 13th Illinois regiment on his way with several wagons loaded with Dr. Davis and about fifty wounded men. Colonel Taylor allowed to come, and will probably arrive here to-morrow night. This is about one hundred and eighty of our wounded in Springfield, of which one hundred are able to come to Rolla if there only had been transportation. Many of the rebel officers oppose our wounded leaving. Dispatches were received on Thursday at Springfield to the rebels that Mulligan had surrendered without firing a gun, taking twenty-one pieces of artillery, 6,000 stand of arms, 4,000 prisoners. Boonville was also taken. Price was marching on to Jefferson City. This is the way recruits for the secession army are got. McCulloch and his force of about 4,000 men, disaffected Arkansians and Texas troops, and was confidentially believed to have left the state, going south.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24. The subscription to the National Loan amounted to $84,000.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. The gallant defense of Colonel Mulligan is the theme of admiration among the distinguished military men. It was not till late last night that a dispatch was received from General Fremont, that the rumors of the surrender were fully though reluctantly credited.

The War Department has determined to vacate all the offices of Quarter Masters, Commissaries and other officers who fail to respond promptly by filing their bonds and presenting themselves for active service.

Special dispatch to the Chicago Tribune.

CAIRO, Sept. 24, 1861. The rebels are reported in force six or eight miles off the lines of our Norfolk encampment. Yesterday and last night skirmishing was continually going on between scouts of the opposing forces. It is not known how strong or what the character of the enemy may be. They are thought to be portions of the Columbus army acting in conjunction with Jeff. Thompson's force.

Federal troops were moved yesterday from the Kentucky side to Norfolk. The positions at Bird's Point and Camp Holt have been again reinforced. Taylor's battery and all the 11th Illinois are now at Norfolk. There is no reason to apprehend a rebel attack against the Norfolk encampment.

Col. A. Wagner, late in command of the artillery at this post, has been appointed Chief of ordnance on Gen. Fremont's staff. Adjutant N. P. Cook was yesterday elected Major of the 2d Iowa regiment. Rebel engineers from Columbus were out prospecting at Blandville yesterday. Two or three companies of troops were along. The party after two or three hours stay returned to Columbus.

Nothing of the least importance from Paducah.

All quiet at Bird's Point, Fort Holt and Cairo.

Special dispatch to the Chicago Tribune.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 24. An alarm occurred at Jefferson City last night, from supposed firing at Osage bridge. It turned out to be false.

The work on the fortifications continues day and night. There are troops at Sedalia and Syracuse. Gen. Starr is reported moving rapidly towards Glasgow and Boonville.

News from Jefferson City reports that troops lately camped there waiting orders have been ordered to march to Sedalia.

This conflicts with a report obtained from an officer of one of the departments; that positive advices have been received here that Sturgis and Lane were within five miles of Lexington and on Saturday last resolved to advance Price's progress northward.

Military matters in town are active. All the rolling stock available from the Iron Mountain road has been used on the Pacific road. To prevent accidents, a pilot engine precedes all trains, besides bridges being guarded.

A notice appeared on the Evening News building to-day, headed, "To Rent—Apply to the Nigger Pen on Fifth street." Mr. Ramsey refused to tell who wrote the objectionable article, and is reported to have had a spicy conversation with one of Fremont's aids.

Gen. Fremont will probably leave early to-morrow in the direction of Jefferson City. A letter from Frank Blair, it is reported, will be released to-morrow, to enable him to take the field with his regiment, in consequence of a request to that effect from Montgomery Blair.

The story is false that express charges incurred by Fremont for the government are three hundred thousand dollars. They do not reach twenty thousand.

Special Dispatch to the Chicago Times.

St. Louis, Sept. 24.

A skiff, found floating in the river this evening, contained the body of a well-dressed man whose brains were blown out. A pistol was found lying in the boat.

The gun-boat New Era, converted from a sub-marine boat, is finished, and will be armed with five nine-inch Columbiads, manned with a crew of one hundred men. She will leave soon for the Missouri river. Her upper deck and pilot house are shielded by casings of iron.

The Democrat has commenced issuing an evening paper.

The report is not confirmed that Hardee has re-entered Missouri and is advancing northward.

Col. McNeill will continue permanently to act as provost marshal.

Col. McClurg's regiment of home guards, in their conflict with the rebels near Tusculum, did not lose three hundred prisoners, as was first reported. The loss incurred was small, but many of the men threw away their guns and accoutrements.

The boats which went up from Jefferson City to reinforce Lexington returned on hearing the report that rebel batteries were planted near Brunswick, to command the channel.

A part of the troops were landed at Boonville and the remainder taken back to Jefferson City.

Major General Fremont, with his entire staff, and Generals Pope, Sigel, and McKinstry, leave to-morrow.

To-day's Report.

(Reported Exclusively for the Daily Gazette.)

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.

The rebels are throwing up earthworks for the purpose of fortifying Ellis Hill, seven miles from Alexandria, on the line of the Alexandria & Orange railroad, and two miles this side of Springfield station. There is, however, no large force there.

An officer in the rebel army writes to a lady in Washington, that they will be in Washington Sunday next.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. Mulligan's men who arrived at Chicago to-day report 12,000 rebels killed and wounded and one hundred and fifty federal.

Half a million of money was secured by Price after the surrender.

BOSTON, Sept. 25. The national fast day is to be observed strictly throughout New England, even to the closing of ferry and railroad offices.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 25. The news from Lexington reports that McCulloch is marching rapidly to form a junction with Price, with a large, well-armed and well-disciplined force, and a good supply of artillery. He is now very near Lexington.

Mulligan's total loss at Lexington was not over 150, and that of the rebels not more than 300.

RISEING SPRING, Ind., Sept. 25. By a dispatch this morning from Florence, Indiana, we learn that a party of about fifty mounted rebels rode into Warsaw, Ky., last night about 10 o'clock, and broke open a building in which there were stored some arms belonging to the state, and carried them off. Six or seven Union men came up just as they were leaving, and were fired on.

The Union men returned the fire, killing one of the rebels and wounding several others. It is supposed they have gone to Marshall's camp, in Owen county. One of the Union men was wounded in the arm. The Union men had taken the locks off the guns that were stolen, intending to keep them off until they had organized their company. The military of Rising Spring have offered their services for the defense of Warsaw.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25. By orders from headquarters, all places of business, except drug stores, will be closed to-morrow and the day observed.

FORTRESS MONROE, Sept. 25. An arrival from Hatteras reports all quiet. An early attempt will be made to dislodge the rebels from Roanoke Island.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. Flour receipts 25,712 barrels, market rather more steady. Sales 15,000 barrels—5,204.35 super state, 5,504.60 common to medium extra western, 5,704.80 shipping brands extra R. H. O. Canadian flour is steady; sales 500 barrels—3.80 super, 5.40 a. 50. Wheat 142c Letter.

ARREST OF AN EDITOR.—An indignant and excited prisoner.

The arrest of Mr. McMasters, late of the Freeman's Journal, and at the time of his seizure editor of a seditious publication styled the Freeman's Appeal, has been duly chronicled. The scene which transpired on the occasion was of a stirring character, as we learn from the New York Post, which says:

"Mr. Murray proceeded to open his business, which was to comply with an order of the secretary of state directing Mr. McMasters' arrest."

"I demand your warrant," cried McMasters.

"Our presence here is warrant enough," replied the marshal.

Mr. McMasters made some movements indicating a design to resist the officers, who proceeded immediately to secure him and hold him fast.

"Handcuff me!" cried the arrested man; "put on handcuffs."

The marshal courteously obeyed his request, and a pair of manacles lately seized on a slaver, were placed around the wrists of the editor. He raised and stormed, and declared that he would shoot Governor Stewart and everybody else, who had a hand in his arrest.

Finally, becoming more quiet, he asked Mr. Murray to permit him to write a letter to his wife. The manacle was removed from the wrist of the right hand, but he refused to let the officer unfasten it from the other.

"I want it there," said he; "I want it kept on."

"You shall be obliged," replied Murray. "I always do what a man wishes when it lies in my power."

The assistant editor of the Appeal assured his principal that the paper should come out promptly as ever, and not a whit abated in severity. Marshal Murray, quietly suggested that he would then have the opportunity to join Mr. McMasters at the fort.

By this time that gentleman had finished and sealed his letter. He now demanded to be again handcuffed.

"Put them on! there, that is right! I want them on!" said he.

The marshal called for a carriage, but McMasters declared that he would walk.

"You would get tired," remarked Murray, quietly, "if you should walk all the way to Fort Lafayette."

The carriage came and the party drove down Nassau street. Mr. McMasters thrust his manacled hands out of the window and recognized an acquaintance, and calling to him demanded that he should note what his friend had been doing. Getting no reply he drew in his hands, and threatening vengeance, sat moodily back. Before many minutes the party were at South Ferry; and in company with Marshals Lee and McKay, Mr. McMasters proceeded on his journey. Before an hour had passed, the preliminaries had all been completed, and he became an inmate of Fort Lafayette.

EIGHTH REGIMENT.—The Madison Patriot says: The companies of this regiment are now full and are lettered as follows. The field officers and company officers deserve credit for the soldierly and orderly behavior of the men, and they for the attention and promptness with which they attended to their duties. The field and company officers are proud of their men, and they have ample reason for a stouter and more spirited regiment never formed into line. From what we hear the men say, the officers, from the Colonel down, are very efficient and popular.

Colonel—R. C. Murphy. Lt. Colonel—G. Robbins. Major—J. W. Jefferson. Adjutant—Capt. Bryant. Quartermaster—P. M. Hovey. Surgeon—S. P. Thorp. 1st Assistant—W. Hobbins. 2d Assistant—J. E. Murta.
